Economist Says Population Hike Won't Curb Surpluses

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio Farm Bureau Federation was told here today that predicted population increases probably will not cut farm surpluses in the future.

Dr. Arthur Mauch of Michigan State University, an agricultural economist said the surplus problem is not a temporary one, and that studies indicate "that by 1965, we will still be producing more than the market will absorb at present price levels, in spite of a population increase of about three million a year."

He said both farm and city persons agree that farmers are entitled to earn a fair return for their land, labor, capital and management. "The problem lies in getting substantial agreement on what is a fair return and how it can be realized," he said.

Dr. Mauch offered seven alternatives he said might be considered in solving the farm problem. These alternatives, he said, are permitting the problem to work itself out on the open market; expansion of market demand; production control, adjustment of production within agriculture, transfer of income directly from non-farm to farm people by means outside the market, shifting of people out of farming, and combining some features of each.

ANOTHER speaker, Raymond A. Ioanes, Foreign Agricultural Service deputy administrator of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, said the completion of the St. Lawrence Seaway will offer new horizons to American farmers through transportation savings.

"Studies indicate," he said, "savings of about 15 per cent per bushel on grain shipped by the St. Lawrence Seaway. Any savings will help make our farm products more competitive in the world market. The new seaway facilities will handle bulk carriers 10 times the size of the present 2,000 to 2,500 ton carriers now in use."

He told the federation that it is very important to American farmers that a high level of agricultural exports be maintained, and that "although the domestic market is and always will be our principal market, it alone cannot absorb the total production of our farms; foreign markets are an essential auxiliary outlet."

Dist. Atty. Earl Kileen of Waukegan County said Plainfield Township officials were working on the selection of two graves from the list of eight provided by Gein.

The 51-year-old bachelor is in the Central State Hospital for the Criminally Insane at Waupun.

He will undergo 30 days of mental observation to determine whether he is competent to stand trial for first-degree murder. He is charged in the death of Mrs. Bernice Worden, 58-year-old widow whose mutilated body was found hanging in a shed at Gein's secluded farm Nov. 16.

The frail-looking, 140-pound handyman admits he killed and mutilated Mrs. Worden and Mrs. Mary Hogan, a Portage County tavernkeeper, Dec. 9, 1954.

Mrs. Worden's body and the heads of 10 other women were found in Gein's two-story frame house. One head has been identified tentatively by Portage County Sheriff Herbert Wanserski as that of Mrs. Hogan.

The Sunday Express reported that Margaret is determined "to establish that not only is she a princess but a woman of personality in her own right."

The newspaper said the princess shocked Queen Elizabeth II by going out on the town last Wednesday instead of staying at the palace to celebrate the 10th wedding anniversary of the Queen and Prince Philip. Other close relatives attended the palace party.

Margaret was invited but changed her mind at the last minute, the Express said. Instead, the Queen's vivacious 27-year-old sister went to the theater with friends and then dined at the fashionable Savoy Hotel.

She showed up at the palace just before the party ended.

Ohio Toll Very Low

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio's weekend traffic fatalities dropped to a surprising low, if not the lowest of the year. Only four were reported.

Experts Trying To Track Trail Of Sputnik I

Satellite's Rocket Expected by Man'y To Be Near Final Hour

WASHINGTON (AP)—U. S. scientists prepared today to feed new sighting data into an electronic brain in an effort to predict more accurately when Sputnik I's rocket carrier will fall.

Predictions during the weekend that the rocket's fall was imminent were not borne out. One British astronomer who had made such a prediction revised it to say the rocket is expected to last for several days.

Sunday night, the rocket was sighted by skywatchers over northeastern United States.

Dr. John White, staff scientist at the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory in Cambridge, Mass., said those and other sighting reports would be used in a new computation of the rocket's present orbit.

White said the new data, fed into an electronic brain at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, may permit a more accurate forecast of when the rocket will take its fatal plunge.

SOUTHWESTERN Ohio residents will get a chance to look at the rocket tonight, according to Dr. A. K. Presnell, president of the Cincinnati Astronomical Society. He said the rocket section, now dipping increasingly closer toward earth, is scheduled to appear about 6 p.m. and may come as early as 5:45 p.m. due to slowing of the rocket speed.

Presnell said the rocket will appear first in the north, will travel across the sky to the southeast and should approximate the brightness of the North Star.

Some scientists have expressed a belief that Sputnik I, a 184-pound sphere, will stay on course for several weeks longer than its carrier rocket because the drag on it is much less than on the rocket.

Estimates are that the rocket, now traveling closer to the earth than Sputnik I, has covered more than 20 million miles.

The weekend brought these other developments:

1. Dr. Hans K. Ziegler, a German-trained scientist, said at Ft. Monmouth, N. J., the United States could have launched a satellite last month if President Eisenhower had ordered it.

2. Elbert Eaton, an Air Force research specialist, said in Bedford, Mass., studies now under way are aimed at sending three 1,600-pound satellites into orbit between 300 and 600 miles above earth, and at shooting a rocket some 4,000 miles into space. Each of the satellites, Eaton said, would be equipped with TV instruments.

3. Data, a trade magazine, said the Air Force hopes to have an experimental manned vehicle in space by 1960.

Moroccan King, Ike Planning Talks

WASHINGTON (AP)—Morocco's King Mohammed V flies here today to start a 19-day state tour that includes two long talks with President Eisenhower and a first-hand look at the U. S. heartland.

During the next three days, the Moroccan King and an entourage of 17 persons including his ranking Cabinet members will discuss with American officials a series of matters including U. S. military and economic aid, U. S. bases in Morocco and France's bitter dispute with Algeria.

U. S. officials would like to see France take up an offer by Tunisia and Morocco to mediate the Franco-Algerian rebel fight. But there is no intention here at the moment to pressure, or even advise, the French government along this line.

Mohammed V comes here almost directly from talks at his Habib Bourguiba of Tunisia, another pro-Western Arab leader. The United States and Britain recently supplied a small quantity of arms to Bourguiba in the face of angry French protests.

World Domination Said Sought, Even with War

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Vice President Nixon says the latest Communist party peace manifesto means that the Russians "have reaffirmed their ultimate goal of world domination by nonmilitary means if possible, by war if necessary."

Nixon spoke Sunday night at the closing session of the fourth convention of the National Council of Catholic Youth. He called the Communist statement, published three days ago by the Communist parties of 64 nations, the "Khrushchev Manifesto."

The manifesto called on the nations of the world to stop the arms race, ban nuclear weapons and abandon military blocs. It promised that "we will free the world from the danger of war, death and destruction."

Nixon said it would be foolhardy to brush aside the statement. He declared:

"Because this document warns us in advance, at a time when we are thinking primarily of defending ourselves against the increased military potential the Soviet Union will have in the future, that the men in the Kremlin are launching right now a massive non-military offensive aimed at the overthrow of all free governments."

"HERE ARE some of the actions we can expect as a result of the adoption of the Khrushchev Manifesto:

"The dictators of Moscow will sharply step up their economic, psychological and subversive activities all over the world.

"They will emphasize again the popular front tactics which fooled so many well-intentioned people in times past.

"Ruthless control and domination of Communist governments and Communist parties everywhere by the men in the Kremlin will again be the order of the day."

JERUSALEM (AP)—A Jordanian demand for the removal of a U. S. officer serving as U. N. truce observer today threatened a breakdown in the mediation of disputes along the Jordan-Israeli border.

As new frontier clashes were reported, Jordan announced that it no longer would accept the truce recommendations of U. S. Marine Col. Byron Leary.

But a U. N. spokesman said Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld immediately told the Amman government that Leary "continues to enjoy his full personal confidence."

Jordan's demand for Leary's removal apparently was prompted by the officer's mediation efforts in an Israeli convoy incident last week which touched off a series of border clashes.

Jordan charged the Israelis violated the armistice agreement by sending a convoy with highly flammable benzene to a hospital in the Mt. Scopus demilitarized area within Arab Jerusalem.

Israel then asked to negotiate with Jordan, citing a section of the armistice agreement applying to the movement of traffic on Bethlehem-Jordan roads.

Leary relayed the request. Jordan rejected it.

The Arab government's repudiation of Leary as a truce observer was accompanied by an announcement that Jordan will take the convoy matter to the U. N. Security Council.

ance are expected to arise before the King ends his visit with the President next Thursday morning and flies to Williamsburg, Va., to begin a national tour. These issues are:

1. Economic aid — Mohammed reportedly wants the United States to boost the $20 million annual total of U. S. assistance.

2. U. S. Bases — The Air Force has four bases in Morocco and the Navy has one. Mohammed opened negotiations with the United States several months ago on new agreements.

3. Military Aid—Mohammed has an army of around 38,000 troops which has been equipped by France. He may bring up the issue of getting guns and ammunition from the United States.

H-Bomb Maker Says Red ICBM Can Hit Texas

Senate Probers Hear Solemn Testimony on American Progress

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dr. Edward Teller, the scientist said to be the father of the hydrogen bomb, said today that if both countries maintain their present pace of missile development "there is no doubt that Russia will leave us behind—and way behind."

And already, he said, he believes the Soviets have "or will have in a short time" the ability to hit major industrial centers in this country with an intercontinental ballistic missile. Specifically, he said he believed the Russians could hit such a distant target as Houston, Tex.

Teller, an expert on nuclear weapons, was the opening witness in a broad Senate inquiry into the U. S. missile program.

Among the major points of his testimony:

1. Russia has been able to make such tremendous advances because of willingness to take risks, to gamble in untried fields where there was no certainty the money spent would bring concrete results.

2. In 1946 the United States could have decided to proceed with missile development at top speed, but at that time there was extreme doubt that an effective long range missile could be developed.

IT WAS "years later," Teller said, before the value of such a missile could be demonstrated. He said when this became clear "quite a bit of energy" was put into the program. Since then, "the work has been excellently managed," but it came too late.

3. He does not believe the Russians have caught up with the United States in nuclear weapons, but in bombers, radar and other developments the Russians "apparently know as much as we do."

4. In his opinion, there are "many places" where additional money could bring speedier results in U. S. programs.

5. The U. S. program for the development of missiles and other scientific needs can be accelerated by closer cooperation among the armed services, among companies working on the missile programs and companies which could be brought into the program, and by cooperation and sharing of secrets not only with Great Britain but with other NATO countries and with other allies.

Ag Secretary Change Seen Possible Soon

WASHINGTON (AP)—Farm leaders here figure that if there is to be a change in the secretaryship of agriculture, it will be made possibly this week.

There have been reports that the administration is considering replacing Ezra Taft Benson in the post because of sharp criticism of him by agricultural leaders in and out of Congress, including many Republicans.

Benson himself says that he does not intend to resign, but stated that he was serving on a day to day basis subject to wishes of President Eisenhower.

A Dec. 1 deadline for a possible change was suggested by observers on the theory that a new secretary would need at least a month to develop possible new farm program recommendations for presentation to Congress when it convenes early in January.

Leaders generally agreed that if Benson is still on the job the first of the month, there likely will be no shift in the Cabinet post any time soon. They see little likelihood of any change during the coming legislative session.

Meanwhile, Benson and his aides kept on working on various 1958 crop control and production programs — a fact that caused many department employees to conclude that no change is imminent.

New Trial Order Comes on Appeal

CANTON (AP)—The Fifth District Court of Appeals today reversed the first-degree murder conviction of Harry Dale Bundy, 40, of Zanesville, and ordered a new trial because of the trial judge's errors.

Bundy was convicted in a Stark County common pleas court jury last June 22 in the slaying of Reynold Amadio, 30, who was shot during a robbery of the County Line Market at nearby Uniontown Nov. 23, 1956.

He was implicated in the robbery-slaying by Russell McCoy, 22, also of Zanesville, who admitted in testimony at Bundy's trial that he (McCoy) killed Paul Cain, 35, a clerk in the store, after Bundy killed Amadio.

The jury failed to recommend

$40 Billion Fund For Arms OKd

Ike's Tentative Nod Said Given to Outlay

CHICAGO (AP)—The Tribune said today that President Eisenhower has tentatively approved a Pentagon request for new funds totaling more than 40 billion dollars for the 1959 fiscal year beginning next July 1.

The Tribune, in a dispatch from Washington, quoted Pentagon sources for the information. It said the new total is approximately 4 billion dollars more than was appropriated by Congress for this year.

Tribune staff writer Lloyd Norman said:

"With defense budget makers working late hours rushing the final draft of the Pentagon's money requirements and spending plans for the 1959 fiscal year, usually well informed officials told a reporter that military spending would climb to approximately 39 billion dollars.

"This is less than the cash outlay request because not all the new funds are spent in the same year but are spread over several years on construction and production contracts."

The story further said that latest estimates for military spending in the current fiscal year total $38,700,000,000 — 700 million above the original Eisenhower ceiling of 38 billion. This ceiling was officially eased last month by 400 million dollars and will be relaxed by another 300 million dollars for the second half of the fiscal year.

"Despite economy cuts in military operations," the Tribune said, "spending keeps creeping higher because of the speedup in missile production schedules and rising costs."

"Seasoned forecasters at the Pentagon were willing to bet that spending, spurred by Russian rocket successes, would probably go to 39 billion dollars or higher."

"Such a spending rate would virtually eliminate the chances for a tax cut next year and even threaten a balanced budget, especially if business activity continues to decline, they said."

Southern Texas Gets Heavy Snow

DALLAS (AP)—A snow called the heaviest in 30 years struck deep into western and southern Texas over the weekend, stalling traffic, spreading beneficial moisture and giving the kids a thrill.

A record 14 inches of snow paralyzed Concho County in lower west central Texas Sunday. An estimated 300 motorists were stranded, jamming cafes and the two hotels in Eden.

The tomato crop around Laredo was ruined and the chill weather nipped at winter vegetables in the lush lower Rio Grande Valley.

Leading Yachtsman Dies

COWES, Isle of Wight (AP)—Sir Godfrey Baring, 88, a leading figure in the yachting, political and social life of the Isle of Wight for half a century, died Sunday.

mercy for Bundy, making the death penalty mandatory. He is in Ohio Penitentiary.

Prosecutor Norman J. Putman said the ruling by the appellate court would be appealed to the Ohio Supreme Court.

THE COURT of Appeals vote was 2 to 1. Judge Robert Putnam of Millersburg wrote the majority opinion, with Judge D. Deane McLaughlin of Massillon concurring. Presiding Judge C. B. McClintock of Canton dissented.

The majority opinion held that Common Pleas Judge John Ross-etti, who presided at Bundy's trial, erred in instructing the jury on "aiding and abetting" because the issue was not raised in the indictment against Bundy and also in his instructions to the jurors that it made no difference whether Bundy or McCoy fired the fatal shot.

The opinion also held that the lower court erred and abused its discretion in not granting Bundy a new trial on grounds of newly discovered evidence.

Other than McCoy, only one witness (a 14-year-old girl) testified at Bundy's trial of seeing him at the County Line Market on the night of the double slaying. The defense, in asking for a new trial, produced new witnesses to refute the girl's testimony.

In this connection, Judge McClintock held that testimony offered by the defense was all cumulative to Bundy's claim of an alibi. He pointed out that the new witnesses were from the Canton vicinity and accessible to the defense at the trial.

New Mental Health Unit Tells Goals

CINCINNATI (AP)—The newly-formed Ohio Mental Health Federation aims to establish branches soon in all parts of the state.

That's the report Sunday night by Dr. John A. MacLeod of Cincinnati, an adviser to the new group formed last year after a schism developed in the old Ohio Mental Health Assn.

Dr. MacLeod said, "Our aim is not to compete with the OMHA but to offer the best program we can for the mentally ill in Ohio."

The federation was accepted for membership in the National Assn. for Mental Health last Saturday at a meeting in Atlantic City. The national group dropped the old Ohio association last year for not meeting standards.

The Cincinnati psychiatrist said the break from the association came when "our feeling was that the association was not following the program of the national association."

Dr. MacLeod said that branches of the federation, in addition to Cincinnati, Columbus and Cleveland groups, have been set up at Hamilton, Akron and Gallipolis.

He said that the problem of whether federation branches can be included in local United Appeal drives has not been settled.

Dr. MacLeod said there is plenty of mental health work in Ohio, even for two state groups.

He said the aims of the federation include organizing groups in cities to aid nearby mental hospitals, promoting education in mental health projects in the Legislature and encouraging contributions for research.

Controversial Mexican Art Leader Dies

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Diego Rivera, whose violent paintings and defiant politics made him a charging bull in the world of art, died of a heart attack today in his studio in San Angel. He was 70.

Until pleurisy paralyzed his right hand and arm several weeks ago, he was working on three paintings with the zest which characterized his work for half a century.

Only members of his family and his physician were present when he died. He is survived by his fourth wife, Ama, and two daughters, Ruth and Guadalupe. Rivera had been in and out of the Communist party since 1922. He returned only last year from Russia and proclaimed that Soviet medicine had cured him of cancer.

From his earliest days Rivera expressed defiance in his controversial paintings. At times he wore a pistol while he worked in public.

One of the last major controversies which he stirred was in 1950, when he completed a painting which the Mexican government had commissioned for an exhibition in Europe. Government officials were appalled when they learned that the painting showed U. S. soldiers committing atrocities in Korea. The work was withdrawn from the art show.

California Forest Fire Fighters Gaining Control

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Fire fighters reported today that they were making steady progress in efforts to control the 25,000-acre San Gabriel Mountains forest fire.

The wind died during the night and the humidity rose, conditions which greatly aided the fire-fighting force of 1,400 men working along a 55-mile perimeter of the huge fire burning in almost inaccessible terrain.

The U. S. Forest Service said the fire has destroyed $25 million worth of watershed.

Despite this, the Radical Socialist conference at Strasbourg urged the Gaillard administration to "take the initiative for negotiation with Tunisia and Morocco" in order to try to work out ways for settling the bloody and costly Algerian uprising.

Nixon Says Red Goal Is Plain

World Domination Said Sought, Even with War

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Vice President Nixon says the latest Communist party peace manifesto means that the Russians "have reaffirmed their ultimate goal of world domination by nonmilitary means if possible, by war if necessary."

Nixon spoke Sunday night at the closing session of the fourth convention of the National Council of Catholic Youth. He called the Communist statement, published three days ago by the Communist parties of 64 nations, the "Khrushchev Manifesto."

The manifesto called on the nations of the world to stop the arms race, ban nuclear weapons and abandon military blocs. It promised that "we will free the world from the danger of war, death and destruction."

Nixon said it would be foolhardy to brush aside the statement. He declared:

"Because this document warns us in advance, at a time when we are thinking primarily of defending ourselves against the increased military potential the Soviet Union will have in the future, that the men in the Kremlin are launching right now a massive non-military offensive aimed at the overthrow of all free governments."

"HERE ARE some of the actions we can expect as a result of the adoption of the Khrushchev Manifesto:

"The dictators of Moscow will sharply step up their economic, psychological and subversive activities all over the world."

"They will emphasize again the popular front tactics which fooled so many well-intentioned people in times past."

"Ruthless control and domination of Communist governments and Communist parties everywhere by the men in the Kremlin will again be the order of the day."

H-Bomb Maker Says Red ICBM Can Hit Texas

Senate Probers Hear Solemn Testimony on American Progress

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dr. Edward Teller, the scientist said to be the father of the hydrogen bomb, said today that if both countries maintain their present pace of missile development "there is no doubt that Russia will leave us behind—and way behind."

And already, he said, he believes the Soviets have "or will have in a short time" the ability to hit major industrial centers in this country with an intercontinental ballistic missile. Specifically, he said he believed the Russians could hit such a distant target as Houston, Tex.

Teller, an expert on nuclear weapons, was the opening witness in a broad Senate inquiry into the U. S. missile program.

Among the major points of his testimony:

1. Russia has been able to make such tremendous advances because of willingness to take risks, to gamble in untried fields where there was no certainty the money spent would bring concrete results.

2. In 1946 the United States could have decided to proceed with missile development at top speed, but at that time there was extreme doubt that an effective long range missile could be developed.

IT WAS "years later," Teller said, that it became clear "quite a bit of energy" was put into the program. Since then, "the work has been excellently managed, but it came too late."

3. He does not believe the Russians have caught up with the United States in nuclear weapons, but in bombers, radar and other developments the Russians "apparently know as much as we do."

4. In his opinion, there are "many places" where additional money could bring speedier results in U. S. programs.

5. The U. S. program for the development of missiles and other scientific needs can be accelerated by closer cooperation among the armed services, among companies working on the missile programs and companies which could be brought into the program, and by cooperation and sharing of secrets not only with Great Britain but with other NATO countries and with other allies.

Ag Secretary Change Seen Possible Soon

WASHINGTON (AP)—Farm leaders here figure that if there is to be a change in the secretaryship of agriculture, it will be made possibly this week.

There have been reports that the administration is considering replacing Ezra Taft Benson in the post because of sharp criticism of him by agricultural leaders in and out of Congress, including many Republicans.

Benson himself says that he does not intend to resign, but stated that he was serving on a day to day basis subject to wishes of President Eisenhower.

A Dec. 1 deadline for a possible change was suggested by observers on the theory that a new secretary would need at least a month to develop possible new farm program recommendations for presentation to Congress when it convenes early in January.

Leaders generally agreed that if Benson is still on the job the first of the month, there likely will be no shift in the Cabinet post any time soon. They see little likelihood of any change during the coming legislative session.

Meanwhile, Benson and his aides kept on working on various 1958 crop control and production programs — a fact that caused many department employees to conclude that no change is imminent.

New Trial Order Comes on Appeal

CANTON (AP)—The Fifth District Court of Appeals today reversed the first-degree murder conviction of Harry Dale Bundy, 40, of Zanesville, and ordered a new trial because of the trial judge's errors.

Bundy was convicted in a Stark County common pleas court jury last June 22 in the slaying of Reynold Amodio, 30, who was shot during a robbery of the County Line Market at nearby Uniontown Nov. 23, 1956.

He was implicated in the robbery-slaying by Russell McCoy, 22, also of Zanesville, who admitted in testimony at Bundy's trial that he (McCoy) killed Paul Cain, 35, a clerk in the store, after Bundy killed Amodio.

The jury failed to recommend mercy for Bundy, making the death penalty mandatory. He is in Ohio Penitentiary.

Prosecutor Norman J. Putman said the ruling by the appellate court would be appealed to the Ohio Supreme Court.

THE COURT of Appeals vote was 2 to 1. Judge Robert Putnam of Millersburg wrote the majority opinion, with Judge D. Deane McLaughlin of Massillon concurring. Presiding Judge C. B. McClintock of Canton dissented.

The majority opinion held that Common Pleas Judge John Ross-etti, who presided at Bundy's trial, erred in instructing the jury on "aiding and abetting" because the issue was not raised in the indictment against Bundy and also in his instructions to the jurors that it made no difference whether Bundy or McCoy fired the fatal shot.

The opinion also held that the lower court erred and abused its discretion in not granting Bundy a new trial on grounds of newly discovered evidence.

Other than McCoy, only one witness (a 14-year-old girl) testified at Bundy's trial of seeing him at the County Line Market on the night of the double slaying. The defense, in asking for a new trial, produced new witnesses to refute the girl's testimony.

In this connection, Judge McClintock held that testimony offered by the defense was all cumulative to Bundy's claim of an alibi. He pointed out that the new witnesses were from the Canton vicinity and accessible to the defense at the trial.

New Mental Health Unit Tells Goals

CINCINNATI (AP)—The newly-formed Ohio Mental Health Federation aims to establish branches soon in all parts of the state.

That's the report Sunday night by Dr. John A. MacLeod of Cincinnati, an adviser to the new group formed last year after a schism developed in the old Ohio Mental Health Assn.

Dr. MacLeod said, "Our aim is not to compete with the OMHA but to offer the best program we can for the mentally ill in Ohio."

The federation was accepted for membership in the National Assn. for Mental Health last Saturday at a meeting in Atlantic City. The national group dropped the old Ohio association last year for not meeting standards.

The Cincinnati psychiatrist said the break from the association came when "our feeling was that the association was not following the program of the national association."

Dr. MacLeod said that branches of the federation, in addition to Cincinnati, Columbus and Cleveland groups, have been set up at Hamilton, Akron and Gallipolis.

He said that the problem of whether federation branches can be included in local United Appeal drives has not been settled.

Dr. MacLeod said there is plenty of mental health work in Ohio, even for two state groups.

He said the aims of the federation include organizing groups in cities to aid nearby mental hospitals, promoting education in mental health, seeking support for mental health projects in the Legislature and encouraging contributions for research.

2 Ohio Supreme Court Judges File

COLUMBUS (AP)—Two veteran judges of the Ohio Supreme Court today announced for reelection next year.

Charles B. Zimmerman seeks the Democratic nomination for a six-year term beginning Jan. 1, 1959.

James Garfield Stewart seeks the Republican nomination for a similar term beginning Jan. 2, 1959.

Their races in separate "alleys" make it certain that they will oppose each other in the general election if they win nomination.

$40 Billion Fund For Arms OKd

Ike's Tentative Nod Said Given to Outlay

CHICAGO (AP)—The Tribune said today that President Eisenhower has tentatively approved a Pentagon request for new funds totaling more than 40 billion dollars for the 1959 fiscal year beginning next July 1.

The Tribune, in a dispatch from Washington, quoted Pentagon sources for the information. It said the new total is approximately 4 billion dollars more than was appropriated by Congress for this year.

Tribune staff writer Lloyd Norman said:

"With defense budget makers working late hours rushing the final draft of the Pentagon's money requirements and spending plans for the 1959 fiscal year, usually well informed officials told a reporter that military spending would climb to approximately 39 billion dollars."

"This is less than the cash outlay request because not all the new funds are spent in the same year but are spread over several years on construction and production contracts."

The story further said that latest estimates for military spending in the current fiscal year total $38,700,000,000 — 700 million above the original Eisenhower ceiling of 38 billion. This ceiling was officially eased last month by 400 million dollars and will be relaxed by another 300 million dollars for the second half of the fiscal year.

"Despite economy cuts in military operations," the Tribune said, "spending keeps creeping higher because of the speedup in missile production schedules and rising costs."

"Seasoned forecasters at the Pentagon were willing to bet that spending, spurred by Russian rocket successes, would probably go to 39 billion dollars or higher."

"Such a spending rate would virtually eliminate the chances for a tax cut next year and even threaten a balanced budget, especially if business activity continues to decline, they said."

Southern Texas Gets Heavy Snow

DALLAS (AP)—A snow called the heaviest in 30 years struck deep into western and southern Texas over the weekend, stalling traffic, spreading beneficial moisture and giving the kids a thrill.

A record 14 inches of snow paralyzed Concho County in lower west central Texas Sunday. An estimated 300 motorists were stranded, jamming cafes and the two hotels in Eden.

The tomato crop around Laredo was ruined and the chill weather nipped at winter vegetables in the lush lower Rio Grande Valley.

Imitating Television Cowboy Injures Boy, 11

CINCINNATI (AP)—Eugene Keller, 11, was just imitating the cowboy he saw on television when he started a game with a friend to see which boy could draw a revolver quickest.

But Eugene and his friend, Terry Harter, 17, did not know the 22 caliber revolver was loaded, investigators said. As a result, Eugene was shot and wounded critically by Terry Sunday.

man of the Preparedness subcommittee conducting the hearings, said in his opening statement that the United States has "lost an important battle of technology" to the Soviets.

But, he declared, the "lost battle" represented by Russia's launching of two satellites is "not a defeat—it is a challenge."

AFTER TELLER had described to the subcommittee the conclusions he drew from the launching of the second Russian satellite, he was asked by counsel Edwin L. Weist:

"Then you believe Russia now has an intercontinental ballistic missile?"

"I certainly cannot say with complete certainty," Teller replied. "There is every reason to believe they have it, at least at the stage that they have constructed it and tested it."

"To what extent they have operational capability, I do not know. I certainly hope they do not."

Weist then quoted Dr. Ernest O. Lawrence, head of the radiation laboratory at the University of California where Teller works as a physicist, as saying last week he believed the Russians could hit Houston with ICBM.

"Do you believe that, too?" the counsel asked.

"Yes, sir," said Teller. But he added he wanted to make clear he did not think of Houston as "a pinpoint."

Teller, bushy-browed and serious in appearance, was the first witness before the subcommittee.

He has said the U. S. "had better do something quickly" in getting abreast of Russia in missile development.

Teller told a television audience Sunday the United States has lagged behind Russia in science and thus has lost "a battle more important and greater than Pearl Harbor."

HE DID NOT directly speak of missiles in the general discussion program, but said this country is in a "very sad and dangerous" situation now and that rebuilding U. S. prestige in science "will be a long and hard struggle."

He called among other things for more recognition for scientists.

Johnson said his Senate group later will hear secret testimony from Allen W. Dulles, director of the Central Intelligence Agency; Secretary of Defense McElroy; Undersecretary Donald Quarles; and William Holaday, who heads the department's missile programs.

Two subcommittee members, Senators Bridges (R-NH) and Stennis (D-Miss) said they hope the hearings will clear up what they call a division of authority between Holaday and Dr. James R. Killian, whom President Eisenhower has named as a special assistant to coordinate scientific development.

Sen. Saltonstall (R-Mass), another subcommittee member, said the investigation may show that the nation is trying to develop too many missiles at once rather than concentrating on a few.

Imitating Television Cowboy Injures Boy, 11

CINCINNATI (AP)—Eugene Keller, 11, was just imitating the cowboys he saw on television when he started a game with a friend to see which boy could draw a revolver quickest.

But Eugene and his friend, Terry Harter, 17, did not know the 22 caliber revolver was loaded, investigators said. As a result, Eugene was shot and wounded critically by Terry Sunday.

H-Bomb Maker

man of the Preparedness subcommittee conducting the hearings, said in his opening statement that the United States has "lost an important battle of technology" to the Soviets.

But, he declared, the "lost battle" represented by Russia's launching of two satellites is "not a defeat—it is a challenge."

AFTER TELLER had described to the subcommittee the conclusions he drew from the launching of the second Russian satellite, he was asked by counsel Edwin L. Weist:

"Then you believe Russia now has an intercontinental ballistic missile?"

"I certainly cannot say with complete certainty," Teller replied. "There is every reason to believe they have it, at least at the stage that they have constructed it and tested it."

"To what extent they have operational capability, I do not know. I certainly hope they do not."

Weist then quoted Dr. Ernest O. Lawrence, head of the radiation laboratory at the University of California where Teller works as a physicist, as saying last week he believed the Russians could hit Houston with ICBM.

"Do you believe that, too?" the counsel asked.

"Yes, sir," said Teller. But he added he wanted to make clear he did not think of Houston as "a pinpoint."

Teller, bushy-browed and serious in appearance, was the first witness before the subcommittee. He has said the U. S. "had better do something quickly" in getting abreast of Russia in missile development.

Teller told a television audience Sunday the United States has lagged behind Russia in science and thus has lost "a battle more important and greater than Pearl Harbor."

HE DID NOT directly speak of missiles in the general discussion program, but said this country is in a "very sad and dangerous" situation now and that rebuilding U. S. prestige in science "will be a long and hard struggle." He called among other things for more recognition for scientists.

Johnson said his Senate group later will hear secret testimony from Allen W. Dulles, director of the Central Intelligence Agency; Secretary of Defense McElroy; Undersecretary Donald Quarles; and William Holaday, who heads the department's missile programs.

Two subcommittee members, Senators Bridges (R-NH) and Stennis (D-Miss) said they hope the hearings will clear up what they call a division of authority between Holaday and Dr. James R. Killian, whom President Eisenhower has named as a special assistant to coordinate scientific development.

Sen. Saltonstall (R-Mass), another subcommittee member, said the investigation may show that the nation is trying to develop too many missiles at once rather than concentrating on a few.

U.S. Economy Can Do It Better

Writing from Tokyo, Chicago Daily News reporter Keyes Beech, a long-time observer of affairs in Asia, reports that United States stature has fallen significantly in the Far East. Beech reports a growing feeling in India and Asian countries that they must look to the Soviets for aid and leadership instead of the U. S.

To Americans it may seem strange that Asians would credit Russia so highly, in view of how far behind the U. S. she is economically (though perhaps, not scientifically).

To understand this, Harrison Salisbury, New York Times expert on Russia, says it must be remembered that while the industrial revolution (which raised Western living standards to their present stage) took place beginning in England and the U. S. in 1830, it didn't reach Russia until a century later. Then, when it did, it came on a forced basis, pushed by the communists.

But, he says, the Soviet system "worked. Vast progress was made," although still Russia lags far behind the West.

"As the years passed, it became more and more evident that the Soviet method... was indeed capable of transforming a backward agrarian country into an advanced industrial one.

"The Soviet system and variations on it have a strong appeal in other backward, feudal, dependent and colonial countries. They, too, see an apparent method of short-cutting history, of leapfrogging from the 16th Century into the 20th Century."

All of which underlines the importance of making clear that the American system can accomplish better results and still save for the individual his personal freedom.

Irving Berlin--Still in One Key

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—Fifty years ago a young Bowery singing waiter wrote the words for a song called "Marie From Sunny Italy," and it earned him 37 cents.

Today, more than 1,000 songs later, Irving Berlin, whose golden anniversary in show business is being widely celebrated, is believed to have made more money out of music than any other man in history.

Just how much this self-taught genius of song has amassed is a favorite topic of Broadway conjecture. But it is known that as of last June 30 the tunes and shows he has donated to different charities had raised $10,079.768. Not a bad donation from a boy who once sang for pennies!

One of his tunes, "White Christmas," sold 23 million records. More than 250 new recordings of his songs have been made in the last few months alone.

The world enjoys his music, but knows little of Irving Berlin, the man. He will be 70 next May 11. What is he like—this brooding, solitary figure who, after all these years, can still play a piano in only one key—F sharp?

Few men are heroes to their valets, but Berlin remains very much of a personal hero to Helmy Kresa, 53, his arranger. Kresa, a former student at the Dresden Conservatory in Germany, wanted to be a conductor. But he started as a copyist for Berlin in 1925, became his arranger in 1927, and has stayed with him ever since.

"Irving is the most prolific song writer who ever lived," he said, "and he is as interested in his work now as ever."

"Weeks may go by without his turning out a single tune, and then he will write 10 in a row."

"He requires no special atmosphere to create. He writes any place—wherever he is—in an airplane, a car, at a desk, or walking. He concentrates night and day on his songs.

"He works well under pressure. He composes mostly in his head, then plays it later on the piano. Sometimes, when he has finished a new song, he will phone me and sing it to me and I write it down. I am the musical stenographer."

"He is a very warm man, and doesn't like ostentation. He doesn't like insincerity. He can see through human nature at a glance, and can spot a phony on sight."

"He doesn't get mad very often, and is tolerant of forms of music he doesn't care for himself, such as rock 'n' roll."

"What is his favorite of all the songs he has written? Although he says he has no favorites, I would say the one closest to his heart is 'God Bless America.'"

Where Are A-Bomb Builders?

By George Sokolsky

It is impossible not to wonder what has become of all the men who worked on the Manhattan Project and actually produced the atom bomb before anybody else in the world did. These men had an extraordinary experience; they learned how to accomplish the impossible; they put together Army, Navy, Air Force, engineers, and scientists and molded them into a unit that did succeed in accomplishing what it was instructed to accomplish.

Why are not those men consulted concerning the missiles and rockets about which we see constant press releases but no outstanding achievement? No war was ever won by a battle of press agents. The men of the Manhattan Project did some things remarkably well; they also made some horrible mistakes. Their security was the most complete ever encountered in an American enterprise; nevertheless Dr. Klaus Fuchs, the Rosenbergs and other Russian agents did manage to steal what they wanted to steal.

Our present organization for missiles and rockets could surely learn something from the men who managed the Manhattan

Project. Why must we lose all that experience and all that talent? Why must we always start all over again with novices?

Gen. Leslie Groves, who headed up the Manhattan Project and delivered the atom bomb, is now working for the Sperry Rand Corporation along with Gen. Douglas MacArthur. Whether he makes Univacs or electric razors or carbon paper, he could still be of invaluable advisory service to our government. Is anyone now engaged on rockets and missiles more experienced than Groves or with a greater record of successful accomplishment?

Why do we waste so much talent? Why do we have to start everything as a fresh enterprise when so many men, alive and still active, are available? Do we educate men at West Point at great expense to have them spend valuable years making tin cans?

I was thinking of this as I read a paragraph in a report prepared by Gen. Charles A. Willoughby who knows more about that part of Asia where Red China, Soviet Russia, Japan and the United States meet—namely, Japan, North China, Korea, Siberia.

Here is a specialist who is not being used, just as his former chief, Gen. Douglas MacArthur, is never consulted by his former secretary, President Eisenhower. The paragraph that intrigued me in the Willoughby report reads:

"While not absolute, Russian technological advances are a form of political retribution, the boomerang of 'unconditional surrender,' the Morgenthau-Jehovan revenge complex that drove Germany's ablest military technicians into the Russian orbit, to escape the sinister absurdities of 'Volks Gerichte' and post-facto 'War Crimes tribunals'. The 'Schnorkel' the 'jet' and the 'rocket' were initial German designs. The only remaining Western development of significance, the atom-bomb was promptly stolen by an American-British-Canadian spy ring, sheltered by the jurisprudential softness of Western justice."

This is only too true, but there is nothing that anyone can do about it now. The Russians have made enormous progress in these fields. We have, at long last, given up the battleship which is no longer of any military value; we have built an atomic submarine which is a great achievement. Our task is to stockpile intercontinental missiles and to create a defensive missile destroying weapon.

These we do not have and all the hopeful propaganda from Washington about what we shall have in 1958 or 1959 is utterly meaningless because the world does not stand still waiting for us to catch up. What is essential for a diplomatic victory is some action now that is convincing. Talk is not convincing compared with the Sputnik.

Either we catch up or we do not catch up. One of the Russian tricks in disarmament is to reduce the number of divisions in being in NATO. There are about three Russian divisions to every one NATO division. If the reduction is equal, we can disband all our divisions and leave them with two divisions in being for every one we scrap. The success of such an enterprise would be equivalent to winning a war without fighting. What kind of intellect thinks that way?

Perhaps what we really suffer from is an inability to do problems in simple subtraction such as one minus one leaves zero. No Univac is needed to prove that; it can be done with matchsticks.

Cystic Fibrosis Remains Threat to Young Children

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.

Probably very few of you have ever heard of cystic fibrosis. Yet this disease, a grave one for children, is more common than multiple sclerosis and muscular dystrophy. And I'm sure most of you have heard of them.

Cystic fibrosis is a congenital, hereditary disease of children whose respiratory tracts are blocked by abnormal secretions of mucus. This leads to obstruction, infection and, too often, death.

The lungs, the pancreas, the salivary glands and the sweat glands are involved. About one youngster in every 600 is affected. Unfortunately, half of the victims did not heretofore survive past the age of five.

However, with our recent medical advances, it is now possible for persons who fall victim to cystic fibrosis in infancy to reach their teens and in some cases their twenties.

Despite continued doses of antibiotics to control pulmonary infection, cystic fibrosis remains a daily threat to all who have it. In fact, one expert on the disease makes the grim statement that for 80 per cent of all young victims of the disease, "the prognosis is grave."

Currently, the treatment being used for C. F. children (as we call young victims) is continued use of antibiotics both by mouth and by inhalation therapy. This helps prevent and control lung infections. As a substitute for blocked digestive enzymes, pancreas replacement products are needed. Special water-soluble vitamins and high protein foods also are given.

Cystic fibrosis is transmitted to offspring by a recessive gene which both parents must have. In most families of such parents, one out of four children is affected. In some, however, the incidence rate may run as high as four or five out of five children.

Cystic fibrosis is not detected

WASHINGTON (AP)—What happened? Now what? And who's in charge?

Those are things a Senate subcommittee wants to know as it begins hearings today on why this country fell behind Russia on missiles and satellites.

Here is background—on names, terms and problems—as the hearings unfold. Missiles fall into two main classes: long-range and short-range.

There are two kinds of long-range missiles:

1. The IRBM — intermediate range ballistic missile—which can travel about 1,500 miles. This country has been pushing three: the Air Force Thor, the Army's Jupiter and the Navy's Polaris. None are in production and probably won't be before late next year or early 1959.

2. The ICBM — intercontinental ballistic missile—which can travel 3,000 to 5,500 miles. This country is developing two: the Titan and the Atlas—both Air Force projects. Four years may be needed to get them in production.

There are various short-range missiles for use by Army, Navy and Air Force. For example the Nike, shot from the ground, is part of this country's defense against invading planes.

These shorter range missiles will probably play a small part in the hearings.

IRBMs, with hydrogen warheads and fired from Russia, could flatten Western Europe. This country could do the same to European Russia if its bases around the Iron Curtain countries had IRBMs.

The thought that the Russians have them now is enough to jitter American allies in Western Europe.

The much further ranging ICBM could be fired across a continent and an ocean: from Russia to the United States or from here to there. The Russians claim they have the ICBM. But it's questionable they have them in quantity production.

The Russians are ahead in Satellites, as their launching of the two Sputniks showed, particularly in the size of them.

Of equal importance to the committee—besides finding out what caused the American lag—is what is being done to speed missile development now and what is needed.

Answer: Hiccup is a spasm of the large muscle that separates the chest and the abdomen.

In babies, hiccup usually comes on right after feeding and, in most cases, lasts only a few moments.

U.S. Economy Can Do It Better

Writing from Tokyo, Chicago Daily News reporter Keyes Beech, a long-time observer of affairs in Asia, reports that United States stature has fallen significantly in the Far East. quite as often as it should be. One of the reasons is that symptoms are similar to other conditions, such as asthma and bronchitis.

Most common symptoms are chronic cough, repeated pneumonia, bulky diarrhea and a tremendous appetite, but little gain in weight.

Cystic fibrosis presents a serious threat to many of our children. We're working on a solution to this WAKEFIELD, England — Malcolm Fisher, 20, gave up a share in a $67,000 business, all for love.

A Magistrates' Court here overruled objections from his father and granted him permission to marry Anne Robinson, a pretty 20-year-old bank clerk.

Malcolm's father, a prosperous garage proprietor, had told the youth he is too young and inexperienced to marry. "You can either have the girl or the business," the father said.

Young Fisher chose the girl. He is working as a truck driver at $36.40 a week.

George Austin, assistant counselor of the group.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Barton of Newark visited Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Barton.

Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Beatty visited Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Rathburn.

Over-Pricing Farm Goods Is Rapped

CHICAGO — Don Paarlberg, assistant secretary of agriculture, believes abundant farm products "cannot be priced as if they were scarce."

He pointed out that this year's farm output is expected to equal or exceed the all-time record, despite the soil bank and acreage controls.

"No controls which are acceptable to farm people appear capable of appreciably reducing the volume of farm production," he added.

Food, Drug Administration's Functions Told by Chieftain

Editor's Note: The author of the following article, George P. Larrick, is commissioner of the U. S. Food and Drug Administration.

By GEORGE P. LARRICK
(For Jane Eads)

Two questions frequently asked us are: "Just how good is the American food and drug supply?" "What can consumers do to help the Food and Drug Administration in its job of protecting the public?"

These questions are related. The foods, drugs and cosmetics used by the American people are the best that any nation has ever enjoyed in all history. The food, drug and cosmetic industries are working harder than ever to make further improvements in products, packaging and distribution. Changes are going on all the time. This is progress.

But progress also has a way of creating all sorts of new problems. More followup investigation must be done on the potent new drugs that are being released for sale today. There are more steps in processing today's ready-to-eat-and-drink food products—which means more work for FDA inspectors. There is an increasing use of food additives—small amounts of chemicals which help to keep foods crisp or prevent them from drying out, or becoming rancid or mouldy, or which improve the appearance or the flavor.

This, too, is progress, but a law is needed which will require these materials to be thoroughly tested for their safety before they are tried out on the public. We also need more scientists to research these new materials and problems which affect the public health and pocketbook. And, of course, we always have that minority group of careless and criminal operators who keep us busy with law enforcement activities.

Congress is helping us in two ways—it is supporting an expansion program with increased appropriations and considering amendments to the law to take care of the chemical additive problem.

Consumers can help, too, by taking an active interest in local, state and federal food and drug laws and their enforcement.

Miss Billie Sue Johnson And Mr. Harold Reed Wed

Reception Follows Informal Wedding

Miss Billie Sue Johnson became the bride of Mr. Harold Reed at an informal wedding held in the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Elaine Johnson, 1014 N. Court St. Friday.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Reed, McArthur. The Rev. S. C. Elsea performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by Mr. Vaughn Reichelderfer. She wore a white sheath dress and matching white hat. Her flowers were white carnations centered with an orchid.

Mrs. Thomas Elsea was matron of honor, wearing a light blue full-skirted dress of satin and lace. She wore a matching hat. Her flowers were pink carnations.

Mr. Thomas E. Elsea was best man. The bride's mother wore a blue suit and a corsage of white carnations while Mrs. Reed, the bridegroom's mother, wore a suit of gray with a matching gray hat. Her corsage was of white carnations also.

At the reception held at the home of the bride's mother the hostesses were Miss Barbara Samuel, Miss Flo Goldschmidt and Miss Debbie Ridlon. The wedding cake topped with a bride and bridegroom in miniature centered the table and was flanked by white candles.

The bride wore a blue and gray tweed suit when she left on her honeymoon which will be spent in northern Ohio.

The bride is a senior in Circleville High School and the bridegroom, a graduate of McArthur High School is a student at Rio Grand College.

Blood Center Administrator Addresses Nurses

The Pickaway County Registered Nurses Assn. met at the home of Mrs. Robert Pickens, Park St. to hear Carl Braley, administrator of Regional Blood Center speak on the history of the blood program.

Braley told the 23 nurses present that there were 30 regional blood centers. He said of the 800,000 pints of blood collected 40 per cent of it had been collected through the effort of the Red Cross.

Braley reminded the nurses that there was no actual charge for the blood but for the service.

This region, as all the other regions, has a quota. This quota, if met would supply the needs in this region. If the region fall short of its quota it must operate on an emergency basis.

Mrs. William Clifton, president, was in charge of the business session. The December meeting will be held in the Berger Hospital Guild Room. Mrs. Pickens was assisted by Mrs. Kenneth Bell and Mrs. Ralph Stevenson Jr.

Democrat Women Meet Saturday At Neil House

A meeting of the federated Women's Democratic Club was held at noon Saturday at the Neil House, Columbus.

The meeting was opened by the Club president, Myrna Smith, with fourteen members answering roll call.

Guest at the meeting was the Federation's National President, Helen Gurslett of Van Wert, Ohio. Following the roll call reports were made by the Corresponding secretary, Mrs. Helen Young.

Greetings were given the club by the National President who gave a speech on the duties of Democratic Women of Ohio.

The club has received an invitation to visit Washington, D. C. in January 1958.

A suburban symposium was planned by the officers to be held in June 1958. A letter was read by the President from the Youngstown Women's Club inviting the members to their city for the spring convention April 18 and 19, 1958.

It was decided by the board to hold the fall meeting at the Neil House Sept. 19 and 20, 1958.

From this area Mary E. Fullen was instituted as Area Vice President of the Regional Districts of 6 and 10 including 17 counties.

Shining Light Bible Class Meets at Center

The Shining Light Bible Class of First Evangelical United Brethren Church held its regular monthly meeting at the EUB Service Center.

The meeting opened with a song service and Scripture texts by the members. Mrs. J. W. Trimmer was in charge of the business session which consisted of reports and plans for the next meeting.

This will be the annual Christmas party with program and exchange of 50-cent gifts. Mrs. C. O. Kerns, Mrs. Cecil Porter and Mrs. Lena Disbennet will be in charge of both the program and refreshments.

The following program was presented next with readings given by Mrs. A. H. Morris, Mrs. Harly Noggle, and Mrs. Rockford Brown. A duet, "Sweet Peace," was sung by Mrs. Morris and Mrs. Isley Greeno.

An original paper, "Women in the Program of the Church," was read by Mrs. Trimmer.

A Bible Quiz directed by Mrs. Ralph Long concluded the program. During the social hour, seasonal refreshments were served by the November Committee, Mrs. Trimmer, Mrs. Cora Coffland and Mrs. Noggle. Table grace was given by class teacher, Mrs. Carlos Brown.

GOP Boosters Have Thanksgiving Theme

Mrs. Roy Dumm and Miss Lucille Dumm were hostesses to members of G.O.P. Booster club in their home, 340 Walnut St., on Thursday.

The Pledge of Allegiance opened the meeting led by Mrs. Robert M. Barnes, followed by group singing of "The Battle Hymn of the Republic."

The entire program was devoted to the Thanksgiving theme including readings "Come Ye Thankful People," by Mrs. Charles W. Winner; "Now Sing We A Song For The Harvest" by Mrs. H. E. Valentine and "The Corn is Ripe For Reaping" by Miss Dumm.

Plans were made for the Christmas party and gift exchange. Lunch was served at a large table.

Trinity Lutheran Family Circle Has 85 at Dinner

The Family Circle of Trinity Lutheran Church met in the parish house Sunday evening for its annual Thanksgiving turkey supper and election of officers. There were eighty-five members and guests in attendance.

The supper was prepared and served by a committee under chairmanship of Mr. and Mrs. Delvin Smith. Committee members were: Mrs. Ruth Wells, Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Easterday, Mrs. Gladden Troutman, Mrs. Grace Walters, and Mrs. Margaret Moore. Tables were decorated with Fall leaves, squash, small turkey cut-outs, and Thanksgiving napkins. The decorations were furnished and arranged by Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Riffel and Mrs. Charles Mowery.

The business session was opened by President Mrs. Galen Mowery, with Master Carl Zehner reading a Thanksgiving Day story. The Circle voted to decorate the church for the coming Christmas season. December 15 was set to start the decorations. There will be a carry-in dinner at noon on that date. All members were urged to attend.

The election of next year's officers were held with the following results: Truman Eberly, president, with Charles Mowery as Vice President. For Secretary was Mrs. Grace Walters; treasurer Mrs. George Mallett; reporting secretary Mrs. Gladden Troutman and Gladden Troutman as chorister.

The evening was highlighted by a program arranged by the Rev. and Mrs. Carl Zehner, who presented Miss Ruth Montelius, a local artist. Miss Montelius presented twelve portraits, she is painting of early Indian Chiefs. She explained this work was being done for a new museum being built near Grand Rapids, Mich. She demonstrated her works by painting one of the portraits for the program. Miss Montelius concluded her program by urging the parents to give their children an opportunity in the art of painting.

Miss Billie Sue Johnson
And Mr. Harold Reed Wed

Reception Follows
Informal Wedding

Miss Billie Sue Johnson became the bride of Mr. Harold Glenn Reed at an informal wedding held in the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Elaine Johnson, 1014 N. Court St. Friday.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Reed, McArthur. The Rev. S. C. Elsea performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by Mr. Vaughn Reichelderfer. She wore a white sheath dress and matching white hat. Her flowers were white carnations centered with an orchid.

Mrs. Thomas Elsea was matron of honor, wearing a light blue full-skirted dress of satin and lace. She wore a matching hat. Her flowers were pink carnations.

Mr. Thomas E. Elsea was best man.

The bride's mother wore a blue suit and a corsage of white carnations while Mrs. Reed, the bridegroom's mother wore a suit of gray with a matching gray hat. Her corsage was of white carnations also.

At the reception held at the home of the bride's mother the hostesses were Miss Barbara Samuel, Miss Flo Goldschmidt and Miss Debbie Ridlon. The wedding cake topped with a bride and bridegroom in miniature centered the table and was flanked by white candles.

The bride wore a blue and gray tweed suit when she left on her honeymoon which will be spent in northern Ohio.

The bride is a senior in Circleville High School and the bridegroom, a graduate of McArthur High School is a student at Rio Grand College.

Blood Center
Administrator
Addresses Nurses

The Pickaway County Registered Nurses Assn. met at the home of Mrs. Robert Pickens, Park St. to hear Carl Braley, administrator of Regional Blood Center speak on the history of the blood program.

Braley told the 23 nurses present that there were 50 regional blood centers. He said of the 800,000 pints of blood collected 40 per cent of it had been collected through the effort of the Red Cross.

Braley reminded the nurses that there was no actual charge for the blood but for the service.

This region, as all the other regions, has a quota. This quota, if met would supply the needs in this region. If the region fall short of its quota it must operate on an emergency basis.

Mrs. William Clifton, president, was in charge of the business session. The December meeting will be held in the Berger Hospital Guild Room. Mrs. Pickens was assisted by Mrs. Kenneth Bell and Mrs. Ralph Stevenson Jr.

Trinity Lutheran
Family Circle
Has 85 at Dinner

The Family Circle of Trinity Lutheran Church met in the parish house Sunday evening for its annual Thanksgiving turkey supper and election of officers. There were eighty-five members and guests in attendance.

The supper was prepared and served by a committee under chairmanship of Mr. and Mrs. Delvin Smith. Committee members were: Mrs. Ruth Wells, Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Easterday, Mrs. Gladden Troutman, Mrs. Grace Walters, and Mrs. Margaret Moore. Tables were decorated with Fall leaves, squash, small turkey cut-outs, and Thanksgiving napkins. The decorations were furnished and arranged by Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Riffel and Mrs. Charles Mowery.

The business session was opened by President Mrs. Galen Mowery, with Master Carl Zehner reading a Thanksgiving Day story. The circle voted to decorate the church for the coming Christmas season. December 15 was set to start the decorations. There will be a carry-in dinner at noon on that date. All members were urged to attend.

The election of next year's officers were held with the following results: Truman Eberly, president; with Charles Mowery as Vice President. For Secretary was Mrs. Grace Walters; treasurer Mrs. George Mallett; reporting secretary Mrs. Gladden Troutman and Gladden Troutman as chorister.

The evening was highlighted by a program arranged by the Rev. and Mrs. Carl Zehner, who presented Miss Ruth Montelius, a local artist. Miss Montelius presented twelve portraits, she is painting of early Indian Chiefs. She explained this work was being done for a new museum being built near Grand Rapids, Mich. She demonstrated her works by painting one of the portraits for the program. Miss Montelius concluded her program by urging the parents to give their children an opportunity in the art of painting.

Games and contests followed with prizes going to Mrs. Marion I. Smith, Mrs. E. S. Minor and Mrs. John Steinhauer. Mrs. Smith also was awarded a special gift.

Mrs. Howard Clark, 221 Walnut St., will be hostess for the Dec. 19 meeting.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: My wife is an alcoholic; and for some years she was drunk most of the time. Without my knowledge she suddenly joined Alcoholics Anonymous and for 14 months she hasn't had a drink.

But what nettles me is that she says she must go to at least two AA meetings a week in order to stay sober. I tell her this is nonsense.

She wants me to go to the meetings. What have I in common with these people? I would be absolutely miserable. We have children. What will they think if they find out she is going to AA meetings?

She says alcoholism is a disease; but what has that to do with this "group therapy"? She stays out sometimes until almost midnight. We have begun to argue about it. She accuses me of not being able to cope with her as a sober person. How ridiculous can she get?

So far she has been willing to keep her AA associations a secret. But if it should come out, I can't bear to think what it may do to my reputation as well as hers.

I keep telling her that anyone who hasn't had a drop of alcohol for over a year should be able to resist drink, by using just a little will power—even if (as she says) the first drink gets her drunk.

Is there any way I can convince her that, in what she calls "a fellowship," she has just substituted another crutch?

Margaret Truman Set For TV Return

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Come-back?" says Margaret Truman. "I didn't know I had been away."

That was her reaction to comments on the resumption of her career as a performer. Absent for more than a year because of the birth of her son, Clifton Truman Daniel, she was here to perform a dramatic role on Matinee Theater and do some singing with Giselle McKenzie.

"I must admit that I was more nervous before the matinee show than I've ever been in my life," she said. Despite this, she drew good notices from the reviewers, not to mention her No. 1 fan, ex-president Harry Truman.

Miss Truman also drew unexpected praise from Ethel Barrymore, an inveterate TV fan who caught the show and said her work was "exceptionally good."

All this has helped spur Margaret on to new activity — she spurns the word "comeback."

"I still have from 9 to 12 shows to do for NBC each year," she explained. "It is basically the same contract I have had since 1950, though they let me off last year. I guess they didn't want a very pregnant lady appearing on their shows."

She is married to Clifton Daniel Sr., assistant to the managing editor of the New York Times. Does he approve of her working?

"I wouldn't be doing it if he didn't," she replied dutifully.

Few Women Really Know How To Give Well-Balanced Party

By DOROTHY ROE

Associated Press Women's Editor

It's fun to give a party, but few women know how, says Nata Lee, who has made parties her business for the last 20 years.

Nata, a homey type of wife, mother and grandmother, has observed the party-giving habits of countesses and career girls, grand dames and budgeted housewives, and has observed that all are prone to make the same mistakes.

"The most common mistake of hostesses," says she, "is getting too ambitious in planning a party. They are likely to get so involved in working out elaborate food that they haven't time to give proper thought to the guest list."

Nata believes even the simplest dinner party for a half-dozen friends should be planned with care, and that it's just as important to plan good talk as it is to produce good food.

"Whom to invite is your first problem," says she. "To have a successful party, you must bring together guests who will have some interests in common, who will produce stimulating conversation and won't be at sword's point before the evening is over."

"Then look over the room for your party, and never invite more people than can be seated comfortably in that room. Consider your service. If you haven't a staff, don't try to have a formal sit-down dinner for more than six people. Plan your table setting, and if it is a buffet dinner, be sure to have enough tables for your guests—don't make them balance plates on their laps."

If you bring interesting, congenial people together in a pleasant, restful atmosphere, a drink and a potato chip can make a successful party, says Nata.

"With the disappearance of big household staffs and the resulting changes in our way of living, the informal buffet is the most graceful way to entertain these days," says she.

"Two or three perfect dishes, perfectly cooked and seasoned and simply served, are far better than an elaborate array of tasteless food decorated and garnished within an inch of its life.

"Be sure the food you serve tastes good and that there's plenty of it. Congenial guests and good conversation will take care of the rest of the party."

First United States military airfield was opened at College Park, Md. on Sept. 6, 1909.

NOT SO LONG AGO, this precocious crow flew into the Washington, D. C., zoo and decided to call it home. In addition, it adopted the park police, riding atop their cars and trying to help them direct traffic. Here, the crow is shown with Donald E. Trautman in a nose to nose "chat." The bird will not tolerate civilians and shies away from keepers who are wearing khaki uniforms. (International)

7 Few Women Really Know How To Give Well-Balanced Party

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

It's fun to give a party, but few women know how, says Nata Lee, who has made parties her business for the last 20 years.

Nata, a homey type of wife, mother and grandmother, has observed the party-giving habits of countesses and career girls, grand dames and budgeted housewives, and has observed that all are prone to make the same mistakes.

"The most common mistake of hostesses," says she, "is getting too ambitious in planning a party. They are likely to get so involved in working out elaborate food that they haven't time to give proper thought to the guest list."

Nata believes even the simplest dinner party for a half-dozen friends should be planned with care, and that it's just as important to plan good talk as it is to produce good food.

"Whom to invite is your first problem," says she. "To have a successful party, you must bring together guests who will have some interests in common, who will produce stimulating conversation and won't be at sword's point before the evening is over."

"Then look over the room for your party, and never invite more people than can be seated comfortably in that room. Consider your service. If you haven't a staff, don't try to have a formal sit-down dinner for more than six people. Plan your table setting, and if it is a buffet dinner, be sure to have enough tables for your guests—don't make them balance plates on their laps."

If you bring interesting, congenial people together in a pleasant, restful atmosphere, a drink and a potato chip can make a successful party, says Nata.

"With the disappearance of big household staffs and the resulting changes in our way of living, the informal buffet is the most graceful way to entertain these days," says she.

"Two or three perfect dishes, perfectly cooked and seasoned and simply served, are far better than an elaborate array of tasteless food decorated and garnished within an inch of its life.

"Be sure the food you serve tastes good and that there's plenty of it. Congenial guests and good conversation will take care of the rest of the party."

First United States military airfield was opened at College Park, Md. on Sept. 6, 1909.

There's More to Turkeys Than the Eatin'

By J. I. SMITH
Herald Staff Writer

As you sit down for Thanksgiving dinner, give a thought to the effort that was required to furnish you with that Thanksgiving turkey.

As you are about to carve, think of the hazards that Pickaway County turkey raisers go through from March until November when you so graciously take them off their hands.

Well, the following article will explain the plight of the turkey from birth till he lies on the family table, tempting the pallet on Thanksgiving Day.

The turkey farmer starts his eight months of work around March 1-15 by cleaning and disinfecting the turkey houses in preparation for the arrival of the day-old poults (baby turkeys). These poults are hatched by turkey hatcheries and are in transit toward their destination by insulated and heated vans within four to five hours after birth.

Immediately upon arrival, a wing tip of each poult is clipped to prevent them from flying as they grow older and are turned out onto the open field. Their upper lip also is cut to reduce the death toll, resulting from cannibalism.

Poults are housed in buildings heated at 95 degrees for the first 10 days. Then the temperature is dropped 5 degrees per week until they are approximately four to six weeks old. After this time no heat is required.

THE YOUNG turkeys are housed for eight weeks and then turned out upon the open range to thrive until ready for market. October and November are the biggest months for turkey sales. Since turkeys are susceptible to cold weather they are all sold by Thanksgiving.

An interesting sidelight is that turkeys will not be driven but have to be hauled by truck. In fact, they will not move from one field to an adjoining field until their feeders and waterers are moved. Even then, it takes them two to three days to complete the move.

Turkeys are so sensitive that when first alighting on the open ground they are afraid to take a step because of the new surroundings.

Baby birds are fed finely-ground turkey starter and as they grow older, whole grain corn is fed along with a protein supplement in pellet form.

The open ground or range, as it is called by turkey farmers, must be plowed and cultivated every year to eliminate any disease that may come from the ground. It is also a good practice to keep moving the turkeys from field to field to reduce the possibility of remaining too long on infectious ground.

The shelters seen on turkey farms have a two-fold purpose. One is to protect the young birds from the early spring rains and second to prevent predatory animals from preying upon them.

Chickens are the greatest threat to the health of turkeys, and are never raised nearby. Chickens are a common carrier of blackhead, which is a parasite found in the intestines of diseased turkeys and their greatest nemesis.

EXPERIENCE AND knowledge of a turkey's habits are pre-requisites for a successful turkey raiser. Their habits must be known like those of a good friend. When a friend is sick you know it instinctively, and the same goes with a turkey.

One sick bird can contaminate a whole flock, therefore it is segregated immediately for observation. If it dies, the bird is cut open to see if the cause of death can be ascertained. If the individual farmer is uncertain as to the cause, it is sent to a laboratory for testing and an antibiotic is recommended. This is administered via water because a feverish turkey will drink a considerable amount of water, but won't eat.

Several years ago, turkey raisers here became alarmed at the rate of loss due to preying foxes. In one year alone, Howard Thomas, Pickaway County's largest turkey raiser (20-25,000), lost over 1,000 birds. This problem created such a storm that a bounty was set for foxes and hunters are now allowed to hunt them on Sunday and no license is required. Needless to say, foxes are on the decrease in Pickaway County.

press, "Too much competition, everyone's raising turkeys."

IT IS ALMOST unbelievable, but according to the latest figures there were 34 turkey farms in Pickaway County in 1954, raising 48,062 turkeys. In 1949 we had 48 farms raising 20,549 turkeys.

In the turkey world the 'men' and 'women' are called the hen and the tom. The hen is a smaller bird weighing 12 to 15 pounds, and the tom is a much larger bird, weighing 20 to 25 pounds.

The larger turkey is preferred by volume buyers such as hotels, institutions and restaurants, while the hen is purchased by the housewife, because she doesn't have an

6 Ohio River Barges Lost In Big Blaze

WOODSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Officials are investigating the cause of a fire that swept through six barges on the Ohio River near here early Sunday, destroying some two million gallons of gasoline, kerosene, oil and liquid asphalt.

The fire's origin has not been determined.

Firemen, aided by the Coast Guard and the Army Corps of Engineers, fought the blaze for nearly 12 hours before bringing it under control.

No one was injured. Estimates of damage vary, but the Ohio Highway Patrol said it may reach one million dollars.

The barges were owned by the Ashland Oil and Refining Co. They were being towed northward through Lock 15 at nearby Duffy in southeastern Monroe County when the fire broke out about 1 a. m. Lockmaster William Haught said no explosion accompanied the blaze.

Fire departments from within a 40-mile radius were called in, Haught said. The lockmaster said the fire was brought under control by about 5 a. m., but erupted again about 9:30. It was finally extinguished about 12:50 p. m., he said.

The barges were moved from the locks and saved but were damaged to the extent of about $100,000, fire officials said. The highway patrol estimated that between $500,000 and $1,000,000 in fuel was destroyed, and another $250,000 in damages was done to the lock.

oven or roaster large enough to accommodate the tom.

Turkeys come in two colors—black and white. The white birds have a much easier time of it than their black brothers in regards to heat.

The old saying, "A white shirt is cooler than a black one," is certainly proven by turkeys. The black turkey suffers in the heat and every turkey farmer loses a certain amount during the summer. The white bird is bothered less by heat because its coat reflects the sun's rays while the black turkey's coat absorbs it.

So, Thanksgiving Day as you eat too much turkey and retire in front of television to fall asleep, give a little thanks to the turkey raiser. He will be thanking you!

Vending Firms Planning Big For Future

Engineers Working On
Machine To Turn Out
Full Meal in Package

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—The fast stepping vending industry has big plans on the drawing boards.

Engineers are working on a single machine which will serve a full meal, bringing the food from freezing storage temperature to eating temperature in less than a minute. They say this one—to serve hot food on a plastic tray along with cold salads and desserts—may be two or three years away. Cooking speed is the chief unlucky problem.

Industry spokesmen say vending
sales have risen about two billion dollars this year from 30 million dollars in 1925. Today there are an estimated three million machines in use, tended by 5,500
operators.

Vending machines in factories,
the enthusiasts say, will make the lunch box and plant cafeteria obsolete. The National Automatic Merchandising Assn. says one out of every five manufacturing plants
are using them today.

An automated cafeteria of the North Electric Co. in Galion, Ohio, uses 10 vending machines to serve 33 selections of food and beverages, available 24 hours a day,
seven days a week.

Menus are planned a week in advance. They offer choices of three hot and cold sandwiches,
three hot main courses, three hot soups, three chilled salads, three ice creams, five pastries, five pies, six cold drinks and three hot.

An apartment house in Minneapolis has machines where tenants
can buy milk, bread, eggs, meat, vegetables and butter without going to the store.

Ohio's Governor Outlines His Views on Space Objects

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's
governor took time out Saturday to help a Toledo student meet a civics assignment.

Charles Alexander, senior in Whitmer High School, wrote to
Gov. C. William O'Neill for his views on Sputnik's effect on U.S.
national security and scientific research.

Here is the governor's reply:
"I trust that this letter will reach you in sufficient time to be of assistance in your civics assignment."

"In your letter to me, you asked
the question: 'Do you believe that Russia's launching of the satellite,
Sputnik, is a threat to our national security?'

"I do not feel that the launching of Sputnik is, in and of itself,
a threat to our national security.
I think the threat to our national security, if any, lies in the fact that certain people sometimes get panicky when something, unbelievably new occurs. If the persons, who become emotional about it, are not able to convince other people that there is danger, then there would be no danger, in my judgment, to our national security. As Franklin Delano Roosevelt

once said (if I might cross party lines): 'The only thing we have to fear is fear itself'; and I just do not believe the American people
are inclined to be afraid in time
of crisis."

"We demonstrated during World War II that our production methods and capabilities are the greatest in the world. I do not feel that we have lost any ground in this respect. With our great genius for production and the fact that the American people have remained calm, I believe—for the moment
at least—that our national security is not threatened to any serious
degree."

"Your second question was:
'... what effect will this have on stepping up the United States' experiments in this field?'

"We have already seen that there is much stepping up of our experiments in this connection. I feel that, perhaps, we have become too complacent and, even now, it is not easy for some of our people to believe that the Russians have out-stepped us in this respect."

"It seems to me that this will have a desirable effect and that—

Vending Firms Planning Big For Future

Engineers Working On
Machine To Turn Out
Full Meal in Package

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—The fast stepping vending, industry has big
plans on the drawing boards.

Engineers are working on a single machine which will serve
a full meal, bringing the food from freezing storage temperature to eating temperature in less than a minute. They say this one—to serve hot food on a plastic tray
along with cold salads and desserts—may be two or three years
away. Cooking speed is the chief unlicked problem.

Industry spokesmen say vending
sales have risen about two billion dollars this year from 30 million dollars in 1925. Today there are an estimated three million machines in use, tended by 5,500
operators.

Vending machines in factories,
the enthusiasts say, will make the
lunch box and plant cafeteria obsolete. The National Automatic
Merchandising Assn. says one out of every five manufacturing plants
are using them today.

An automated cafeteria of the North Electric Co. in Galion, Ohio,
uses 10 vending machines to serve 33 selections of food and beverages, available 24 hours a day,
seven days a week.

Menus are planned a week in advance. They offer choices of three hot and cold sandwiches,
three hot main courses, three hot
soups, three chilled salads, three
ice creams, five pastries, five pies, six cold drinks and three
hot.

An apartment house in Minneapolis has machines where tenants
can buy milk, bread, eggs, meat,
vegetables and butter without going to the store.

A man with a hangover in San Antonio can put a dime in the slot and get a whiff of oxygen.
A Chicago hotel lets you put a quarter in a slot and start an undermining motion in the mattress which gently rocks you to sleep.

Tobacco Auction Opens

RIPLEY (AP)—Auction of the new burley tobacco crop starts here today at the Farmers' Warehouse, the only tobacco market in Ohio.
Officials figured that more than eight million pounds will sell for over $5 million.

Ohio's Governor Outlines His Views on Space Objects

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's
governor took time out Saturday
to help a Toledo student meet a civics assignment.

Charles Alexander, senior in Whitmer High School, wrote to
Gov. C. William O'Neill for his views on Sputnik's effect on U.S.
national security and scientific research.

Here is the governor's reply:
"I trust that this letter will reach you in sufficient time to be
of assistance in your civics assignment."

"In your letter to me, you asked
the question: 'Do you believe that Russia's launching of the satellite,
Sputnik, is a threat to our national security?'

"I do not feel that the launching of Sputnik is, in and of itself,
a threat to our national security.
I think the threat to our national security, if any, lies in the fact that certain people sometimes get
panicky when something, unbelivably new occurs. If the persons, who become emotional about

it, are not able to convince other people that there is danger, then
there would be no danger, in my judgment, to our national security. As Franklin Delano Roosevelt
once said (if I might cross party lines): 'The only thing we have to fear is fear itself'; and I just do not believe the American people
are inclined to be afraid in time
of crisis."

"We demonstrated during World War II that our production methods and capabilities are the greatest in the world. I do not feel that we have lost any ground in this respect. With our great genius for production and the fact that the American people have remained
calm, I believe—for the moment
at least—that our national security
is not threatened to any serious
degree."

"Your second question was:
'... what effect will this have on
stepping up the United States' experiments in this field?'

"We have already seen that there is much stepping up of our experiments in this connection. I feel that, perhaps, we have become too complacent and, even now, it is not easy for some of our people to believe that the Russians have out-stepped us in this respect."

"It seems to me that this will have a desirable effect and that—with our 'know-how' and the leadership of President Eisenhower through the men he has selected to spearhead experiments in

Ike Eyes Return to Farm

By OMER ANDERSON
Central Press Association
Correspondent

ELTERBACH, West Germany — The occasion was "farm day" in the White House rose garden, and President Eisenhower was receiving two large delegations from the 4-H Clubs of America and the National Association of Radio and Television Farm Directors.

To the young farmers the President remarked, "In just a few years from now I will be really farming in earnest."

Across the ocean, here in the Odenwald farming village of Elterbach, the President's remark was just what Hermann Joerder had predicted.

Joerder claims—and nobody so far has disputed him — to be the President's distant kin. Joerder, 50, farms a 21-acre property which is pointed out to the tourist trade as the ancestral home of common forebears of Ike and the 200-pound Odenwald farmer.

THEIR COMMON ancestor, as German genealogists have it, was Hans Peter Eisenhauer, the original owner of the Elterbach farm, which covered 101 acres in the Seventeenth century.

Tracing the "Eisenhauer" family tree in his well-thumbed volume entitled "EISENHOWER — a German and English Language Study of President Dwight D. Eisenhower's Ancestors and Relations," Joerder observed, "Farming is in the family blood. The President can't get it out any more than I could."

German genealogists say Hans Peter Eisenhauer had seven children, one of whom is the direct ancestor of Joerder, and another, Hans Nicholas Eisenhauer, the President's forebear. Youngest of the seven, Hans Nicholas moved in the first quarter of the Eighteenth Century to Switzerland and on to America.

The passenger list of packet "Europa," arriving from Rotterdam, at Lewes Delaware, in 1741, includes the name of Hans Nicholas Eisenhauer and three sons, Johann, 28; Johann Peter, 25, and Johannes, 16.

The Eisenhauers' first home was in Lebanon county in Pennsylvania, a fact Joerder likes to emphasize in connection with Ike's Gettysburg farm.

It was the son of Johann Peter — Frederick — who changed the spelling of the family name to Eisenhower. Youngest of 17 children, Frederick moved from Pennsylvania to Abilene, Kan., in the late 1870s to live with his minister son, Jacob Frederick Eisenhower. Jacob Eisenhower, who died in 1906, is the President's grandfather.

Meanwhile, in Germany, not much had happened to the Eisenhauer family. The Elterbach farm was passed from heir to heir, the present owner inheriting it from the family of his grandmother, Katherine, born an Eisenhauer.

BUILT OF RED sandstone and brick, the Eisenhauer farm house in Germany is primitive compared with the President's comfortable

Hermann Joerder draws water from a stone fountain which is inscribed "H. E. (Hans Eisenhauer) 1763" on farm which was old Eisenhower family homestead.

Gettysburg establishment. However, Joerder says, "It's good enough for us. We are happy."

Ike's Odenwald kinsman is envious of the President's farm machinery. With his wife and sons Walter, 19, and Kurt, 16, Joerder is short-handed. He has a tractor and mechanical reaper, but little other equipment.

As indicated by the modest acreage, Joerder's farm is a typical small mountain property. His livestock consists of seven cows, 10 pigs and 35 chickens.

Hermann has a brother, Nick, who immigrated to the United States in 1924, changed his name to "Yerder," and joined the U. S. Army. Nick Yerder, 59, retired three years ago as an Air Force band director and now lives at Belleville, Ill.

"Eisenhauer" was a common name in the Odenwald in the Sixteenth and Seventeenth Centuries, and a number of Odenwald families still bear the name — but without claiming to be the President's skin.

"Eisenhauer" translates from the German as "iron cutter," a reference to early times when iron ore was mined by crude methods. The "cutter" or miner "cut" the iron ore from the pit.

Little Rock, Ark., is the home of the University of Arkansas, Arkansas Law School, Little Rock Junior College, St. John's Seminary, Philander Smith College, Arkansas Baptist College and, the School for the Deaf and Blind.

KANSAS CITY — Salvage crews still are looking for Allen O. Glore in the ruins of two downtown buildings destroyed by an explosion and fire Saturday night.

In Kansas Blaze

Glore disappeared when the roof fell in on the print shop he operated on the top floor of the three-story Sterling Building. Frank Bingham, 55-year-old employee, managed to get to a window and down a fire escape.

Fire Chief Edgar M. Grass estimated the loss at more than $500,000 and said it was not determined what had touched off the explosion.

Buck-Backers Demand More Laurels for Their Gridders

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The greatest sweep of laurels in Ohio State football history appeared today to be the only thing which could bring Ohio State partisans more joy than they've already experienced this season.

Everyone connected with the team, from Coach Woody Hayes on down, feel that the national championship is rightfully theirs. Almost to a man, the supporters also claim that coach of the year honors should go to Hayes.

A convincing 31-14 victory over arch-rival Michigan Saturday probably did as much as anything to solidify these feelings.

The loyal haven't waited until now to make their feelings known, of course, but even the most lukewarm admirers are ready to concede that there might be something to this team, after all.

There is plenty of evidence to support the contentions. The Buckeyes, steadily improving all season after an opening loss to Texas Christian, have put together an eight-game winning streak. The string was knotted nine days ago, when the Buckeyes clinched the Western Conference title with a 17-13 victory over Iowa, and pulled tight Saturday with the rout of Michigan.

Besides the Big Ten title, their third in four years, the Buckeyes have a Rose Bowl trip in their hip pocket. If they could add the national championship and coach of the year award, it would be without a doubt the greatest sweep in the school's football history.

The fact that the victories over Iowa and Michigan were accomplished without Don Clark, their star halfback sidelined by a groin injury, makes the Bucks' claims even more formidable.

Their display of power against Michigan was engineered by quarterback Frank Kremblas, who had his best day, according to Coach Hayes. The Buckeyes also got 163 of their 372 yards rushing from Bob White, the burly Covington, Ky., fullback who flashed to prominence with a one-man show against Iowa the week before.

The Buckeyes will name a new captain, or co-captains, tonight at the annual appreciation banquet. They'll then take a few days to catch up on their studies before settling down to Rose Bowl business.

Their opponent in the bowl at Pasadena, Calif., Jan. 1, will be Oregon, Pacific Coast Conference co-champion with Oregon State.

In the midst of all this jubilation, Ohio State announced plans for distribution of nearly 17,000 tickets to the bowl game.

Ohio State Lays Bold Claim To National Football Crown

By the Associated Press

Ohio State, the once-beaten Big Ten champion, laid a bold claim today to the national collegiate football title for 1957.

The only team that appears to be in a position to challenge the powerful Buckeyes, who flattened Michigan 31-14 last weekend, is Auburn, king of the Southeastern Conference and one of the two remaining major unbeaten-united teams. The Tigers and Arizona State of Tempe, a 41-0 winner over College of the Pacific, are 9-0 now.

A week ago, Michigan State was selected over Auburn as the No. 1 team in the weekly Associated Press poll. The Spartans also had been beaten once, but their powerful offense apparently was more impressive than Auburn's tough defense.

Now the Spartans may be eliminated after the tough time they had beating Kansas State 27-9.

Auburn gave its defensive unit some offensive support for a change last week, thumping Florida State 29-7. But Ohio State, once again showing its running strength behind a dependable blocking line, came up with 372 yards rushing in its bid for the title.

Except for its opening game defeat by Texas Christian—a team that hasn't done much since—the Buckeyes trampled everything in sight.

Ohio State will meet Oregon in the Rose Bowl and will rule the heavy favorite. Oregon was held to only a co-championship in the Pacific Coast Conference, losing 10-7 to Oregon State, last year's bowl team, which claimed a share of the title.

As for Auburn's credentials, the Tigers have only Alabama (2-6-1) between them and a perfect season.

Haughton Clinches Sulky Driver Title

COLUMBUS — Billy Haughton, 34-year-old reinsman from Brookville, N. Y., has clinched his fifth straight title as the nation's leading harness horse driver, according to U. S. Trotting Association tabulations.

Deadlocked with William D. (Buddy) Gilmour, Haughton registered two victories last Thursday to regain leadership with a 154 total. Gilmour, of Ridgeway, Ontario, wound up his season at New York's Batavia Downs track a week ago with 152 victories.

The 25-year-old Canadian pilot has returned to his home and will

Proximity Achievement Award Goes to Ohioan

NEW YORK (AP)—The Proximity Achievement Award, given annually to the person judged to have done the most for harness racing during the year, was presented Sunday night to Walter J. Michael of Bucyrus, Ohio.

Michael, president of the Grandview, Painesville and Northfield trotting tracks in Ohio, was honored at the annual dinner of the U.S. Harness Writers' Assn.

He was out of action the remainder of the year.

Haughton is now in New York for a final week's competition at Roosevelt Raceway starting today.

Bowl will be decided after Saturday's Army-Navy clash in Philadelphia. If Navy wins it, the Mid-dies in all probability will head for Dallas.

The other major bowl —the Orange in Miami—is all set. Oklahoma, which started a new winning streak with a 32-7 victory over Nebraska Saturday, will meet Duke.

The Blue Devils were selected by the Atlantic Coast Conference although they took a 21-13 whipping from North Carolina Saturday. North Carolina State won the conference title with a 29-26 victory over South Carolina, but, like Auburn, is in the bad graces of the NCAA.

No matter how it works out, there won't be an undefeated team in any of the four major bowls. That's a rarity.

The visiting team in the Cotton and is ineligible to play in a bowl.

The host spot for the Sugar Bowl in New Orleans Jan. 1, usually reserved for the conference king, probably will go to Mississippi—if Ol' Miss, idle last week, gets past ambitious Mississippi State.

The opponent will be determined by the Southwest Conference race. If Rice beats Baylor Saturday, the Owls go to the Cotton Bowl, and Texas A&M probably will provide the SEC's opposition in the Sugar Bowl. Rice whipped Texas Christians 20-0 last weekend. A&M, idle after the 7-6 upset by the Owls, plays Texas Thanksgiving Day.

10 Contests Scheduled for Area Cagers

Pickaway county and area basketball teams are carded for a 10-game schedule this week.

All county teams will be involved in non-league tests. Four tilts are slated tomorrow night, two Wednesday, three Friday and one Saturday.

Tomorrow night Mt. Sterling is at Jackson, New Holland at Good Hope, Pickaway at Lancaster St. Mary's and Kingston at Bloomingburg.

Wednesday night Groveport comes to Walnut and Laurelville travels to Gibsonville.

Friday Darby goes to Amanda, Saltercreek is at Frankfort and Walnut travels to Stoutsville. Saturday night Pickaway makes a trip to Centralia.

Two IL Games Slated Tonight

Circleville Industrial League basketball will feature two games at the Fairgrounds Coliseum tonight.

Nebraska Grange takes on Veterans of Foreign Wars at 7:30 p. m. and GE meets Ashville at 8:45 p. m.

The VFW outfit will be seeking its third win in a row. The Grangers have won one and lost one.

General Electric and Ashville each own a 1-1 record.

Spartans Seeking NCAA Harrier Title

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—The long distance runners of Michigan State will try for a triple slam in cross country at the 19th annual NCAA meet today.

The Spartans already have won the Big Ten and ICAA titles. They also will be after a third straight team victory in the four-mile NCAA grind.

"MONEY-AHEAD" CONTEST

Fantastic? It's mighty near unbelievable! But true — just read this:

You can win $500 a month for the rest of your life. You can win a gleaming new "Money-Ahead" '58 Plymouth. You can win other valuable prizes.

It's the Plymouth "Money-Ahead" Contest, where a lifetime of financial security is ripe for the taking. Few things are more substantial than money, and a lot of money is the grand prize. But this is a contest where you can win big without hauling down first prize... for 18 sparkling new Plymouths and 450 other valuable prizes will be awarded. Now here's what you do:

Go into your Plymouth Dealer's and ask him for a contest blank. You don't have to be a mental giant to shoot for the big money. This contest is fun, and it's easy.

You simply unscramble seven easy words and terms, like the one you see in the example to the right. Then add your own short version of why you'd be money ahead in a '58 Plymouth. Believe us, there are plenty of good reasons you can use: Torsion-Aire, Total-Contact Brakes, Silver Dart Style, Push-Button Driving, new Golden Commando engines, etc. Unscramble or scramble — but you better not amble — to your Plymouth Dealer soon. The fun starts Monday, Nov. 25.

Spreads a magic carpet over bumps.

As 1958 Campaign Nears, Ohio Dems Poor, GOP Flush

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Approach of the 1958 election year sharpens the contrast between state headquarters of the Democratic and Republican parties in Ohio.

Democrats, pressed to pay rent on offices in the Deshler-Hilton Hotel here, long for new quarters better suited to their financial and physical needs for an uphill campaign now gaining momentum.

Republicans, holding all elective state offices and big legislative and Ohio congressional majorities, have maintained headquarters for nearly a decade a few doors north of the hotel at Broad and High streets.

Members of the Democratic Executive Committee meet in Columbus Dec. 2 to consider a move to more adequate headquarters in preparation for next year's campaign.

Only Television Could Have Told of Era

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the fascinating aspects of "The Innocent Years" on NBC-TV was that we never would have had this intimate portrait of an era if it were not for the invention of television.

The "Project 20" creation of the age between 1900 and World War I was one of those occasions when a snob who does not believe that television can provide artful entertainment should regret his refusal to buy a TV set.

I was especially struck by one aspect of "The Innocent Years"—an aspect that came through unconsciously on the old films and was noted by Daniel Jones, who led the long search for the material. Did you notice the vigorous actions of the people in the days of grandfather's prime?

When Teddy Roosevelt chopped a tree, he slaughtered it. When William Howard Taft hit a golf ball, he killed it. When Mark Twain had a movie camera pushed in his face, he snarled at it. When Thomas A. Edison, who suffered from deafness, couldn't hear an assistant, he slammed a fist on his desk.

Perhaps it takes the lapse of a half-century to find positive virtues in an era. With all its faults, that age had virtues which shone in "The Innocent Years." The program revealed there was happiness in innocence.

William L. Coleman, who became Democratic state chairman in May 1956, has continued to serve without pay since last December. The salary he didn't get is $15,000 a year.

The Marysville attorney-farmer has organized a double drive for funds to replenish Democratic coffers.

One phase is a "Dollars-For-Democrats" effort to raise money for campaigns on national, state and local levels. The other seeks 100,000 members paying annual "dues" of $2 to $100 in an Ohio Democratic Club. Members now approximate 10,000. More than 50 county chairmen have agreed to participate in the Dollars-For-Democrats drive.

Required reports on spending by state organizations of both parties in the 1956 election campaigns point up the financial picture. Coleman said the GOP State Finance Committee reported $1,870,000 compared with the Democratic State Executive Committee's $87,000.

Ray C. Bliss, Republican state chairman since early 1949, says money is more difficult to raise for this campaign than in former years. But his paydays are regular at the rate of $18,000 a year. And Republicans expect to stay in their headquarters that are ample for stepped-up activities during campaign years.

Bliss, an Akron insurance man, also has tactical advantages. Coleman is hardpressed to match. He has a national reputation as a political strategist and organizational builder. A member of the GOP National Committee, Bliss has been under consideration at various times for national chairman. He now heads the Midwest and Rocky Mountain State Chairman's Assn., composed of Ohio and 20 other states.

Republicans expect to field a slate of veteran political incumbents for state offices and avoid conflicts in the May primary elections that often cause later rifts in party ranks.

Democrats already have a few

Symphony Aide Named

CINCINNATI (AP)—Max Rudolph, a conductor of the New York Metropolitan Opera, has been named conductor and musical director of the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra, effective next October at the start of the 1958 season.

announced candidates and are pressing for a full slate. A 10-member advisory committee, headed by Murray D. Lincoln, Columbus insurance man, will make its first report on candidate prospects at the executive committee meeting. The advisory group was formed to encourage a large field of capable candidates and recruit them if necessary.

Before taking over as state chairman, Coleman for eight years was Union County Democratic chairman and prosecutor. He succeeded Eugene H. Hanhart of Dover who served without salary at headquarters in the Neil House during Lausche administrations.

Hanhart and Lausche came under fire of Democratic leaders who complained they failed to give all-out support to the entire party ticket in elections.

Coleman has sought to put a statewide organization behind all party activities with the aid of Michael V. DiSalle, Toledo, unsuccessful candidate for governor in '56 and titular head of the party in Ohio.

Undismayed by the solid election-year front presented by Bliss and company, Coleman insists chances are good for Democratic gains.

"Enthusiasm in the Democratic Party in Ohio has never been higher," Coleman asserted. "We have never had so many people willing to work so hard nor have we had so many good, new ideas for helping improve our performance."

Bliss and other Republican leaders, busy with plans for welcoming President Eisenhower to Cleveland for a nationwide address Tuesday night, don't see things that way from their entrenched positions.

Mother Goose Show Marred by Runaway

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—A horse ran away at the annual Mother Goose parade in suburban El Cajon Sunday and injured a dozen or more persons.

Ten were treated at hospitals. Others were bruised or cut. Five of the hospital patients were children.

Gov. and Mrs. Goodwin J. Knight were in the reviewing stand when the runaway raced past.

As 1958 Campaign Nears, Ohio Dems Poor, GOP Flush

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Approach of the 1958 election year sharpens the contrast between state headquarters of the Democratic and Republican parties in Ohio.

Democrats, pressed to pay rent on offices in the Deshler-Hilton Hotel here, long for new quarters better suited to their financial and physical needs for an uphill campaign now gaining momentum.

Republicans, holding all elective state offices and big legislative and Ohio congressional majorities, have maintained headquarters for nearly a decade a few doors north of the hotel at Broad and High streets.

Members of the Democratic Executive Committee meet in Columbus Dec. 2 to consider a move to more adequate headquarters in preparation for next year's campaign.

Only Television Could Have Told of Era

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP)—One of the fascinating aspects of "The Innocent Years" on NBC-TV was that we never would have had this intimate portrait of an era if it were not for the invention of television.

The "Project 20" creation of the age between 1900 and World War I was one of those occasions when a snob who does not believe that television can provide artful entertainment should regret his refusal to buy a TV set.

I was especially struck by one aspect of "The Innocent Years"—an aspect that came through unconsciously on the old films and was noted by Daniel Jones, who led the long search for the material. Did you notice the vigorous actions of the people in the days of grandfather's prime?

When Teddy Roosevelt chopped a tree, he slaughtered it. When William Howard Taft hit a golf ball, he killed it. When Mark Twain had a movie camera pushed in his face, he snarled at it. When Thomas A. Edison, who suffered from deafness, couldn't hear an assistant, he slammed a fist on his desk.

Perhaps it takes the lapse of a half-century to find positive virtues in an era. With all its faults, that age had virtues which shone in "The Innocent Years." The program revealed there was happiness in innocence.

William L. Coleman, who became Democratic state chairman in May 1956, has continued to serve without pay since last December. The salary he didn't get is $15,000 a year.

The Marysville attorney-farmer has organized a double drive for funds to replenish Democratic coffers.

One phase is a "Dollars-For-Democrats" effort to raise money for campaigns on national, state and local levels. The other seeks 100,000 members paying annual "dues" of $2 to $100 in an Ohio Democratic Club. Members now approximate 10,000. More than 50 county chairmen have agreed to participate in the Dollars-For-Democrats drive.

Required reports on spending by state organizations of both parties in the 1956 election campaigns point up the financial picture. Coleman said the GOP State Finance Committee reported $1,870,000 compared with the Democratic State Executive Committee's $87,000.

Ray C. Bliss, Republican state chairman since early 1949, says money is more difficult to raise for this campaign than in former years. But his paydays are regular at the rate of $18,000 a year. And Republicans expect to stay in their headquarters that are ample for stepped-up activities during campaign years.

Bliss, an Akron insurance man, also has tactical advantages. Coleman is hardpressed to match. He has a national reputation as a political strategist and organizational builder. A member of the GOP National Committee, Bliss has been under consideration at various times for national chairman. He now heads the Midwest and Rocky Mountain State Chairman's Assn., composed of Ohio and 20 other states.

Republicans expect to field a slate of veteran political incumbents for state offices and avoid conflicts in the May primary elections that often cause later rifts in party ranks.

Democrats already have a few

announced candidates and are pressing for a full slate. A 10-member advisory committee, headed by Murray D. Lincoln, Columbus insurance man, will make its first report on candidate prospects at the executive committee meeting. The advisory group was formed to encourage a large field of capable candidates and recruit them if necessary.

Before taking over as state chairman, Coleman for eight years was Union County Democratic chairman and prosecutor. He succeeded Eugene H. Hanhart of Dover who served without salary at headquarters in the Neil House during Lausche administrations.

Hanhart and Lausche came under fire of Democratic leaders who complained they failed to give all-out support to the entire party ticket in elections.

Coleman has sought to put a statewide organization behind all party activities with the aid of Michael V. DiSalle, Toledo, unsuccessful candidate for governor in '56 and titular head of the party in Ohio.

Undismayed by the solid election-year front presented by Bliss and company, Coleman insists chances are good for Democratic gains.

"Enthusiasm in the Democratic Party in Ohio has never been higher," Coleman asserted. "We have never had so many people willing to work so hard nor have we had so many good, new ideas for helping improve our performance."

Bliss and other Republican leaders, busy with plans for welcoming President Eisenhower to Cleveland for a nationwide address Tuesday night, don't see things that way from their entrenched positions.

Mother Goose Show Marred by Runaway

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—A horse ran away at the annual Mother Goose parade in suburban El Cajon Sunday and injured a dozen or more persons.

Others were bruised or cut. Five of the hospital patients were children.

Gov. and Mrs. Goodwin J. Knight were in the reviewing stand when the runaway raced past.
